Mary Seager was named 1995 recipient of the David L. Underwood Memorial Lecture Award—an award that honors outstanding staff members for their dedication to teaching and students. The title of her talk was Musings of a Post-Modern Hedge Scholar.

Mary Seager began her teaching career at Florissant Valley in 1975 after working for three years as a bilingual education consultant in the South Bronx, N.Y. She served as Reading department chair from 1981 to 1987 and has worked as coordinator of developmental studies. Mary has a M.A. from Washington University, a M.A.T from Harvard University and a B.A. from Radcliffe College. She has written several articles on reading education and participates in numerous regional and national Organizations.