Jack Ballinger was named 1994 recipient of the David L. Underwood Memorial Lecture Award—an award that honors outstanding staff members for their dedication to teaching and students. The title of his talk was Vitamin C and Illiteracy.

Jack Ballinger joined the Florissant Valley Teaching staff in 1970. He founded the college’s Chemical Technology program and has written numerous books and articles. In 1993 he was appointed to serve on a joint U.S. Department of Education—American Chemical Society committee to establish voluntary standards for chemical technical workers and he is a member of the American Chemical Society’s Technology Program Approval Service.