Theodore Finkelston, Ph. D., was named 1992 recipient of the David L. Underwood Memorial Lecture Award—an award that honors outstanding staff members for their dedication to teaching and students. The title of his talk was "Education at Flo Valley: A Personal Point of View."

Ted Finkelston joined the Florissant Valley history department in 1967. He served on the Developmental Issues Forum Committee and is a member of the Fulbright-Hayes Teacher Exchange Committee for the Midwest region.

Dr. Finkelston is president of the Historical Society of St. Louis County and a member of the American Studies Association. He was lecturer with the College's program in England, and recently wrote an article on the Thomas Hart Benton Statue in Lafayette Park that was published in Gateway Heritage magazine.
